SIX IRISHMEN ARE EXECUTED AT DUBLIN

TAXI CRASHES INTO MOVING TRAIN AT ONALASKA SUNDAY

DRIVER AND PASSENGER HURT

TWO, the driver and passenger, narrowly escaped death at 3 o'clock Sunday morning when a taxicab owned by the La Crosse Taxi company, crashed into a moving freight train at the "Pickle Works Crossing" of the Burlington railroad on the Onalaska road.

The injured:

D. McOwen, aged 40, Kenosha, Wis.

Frank Giller, La Crosse, Wis.

The crossing is one of the most dangerous in La Crosse county and one of several, which the La Crosse county board has sought to have safeguarded by gates or other equally efficient devices through orders of the railroad commission of Wisconsin.

McOwen, who is in St. Francis hospital, but who will recover, is said to be a Kenosha hotelman and to have ordered the cab to take him to Winona, Minn.

According to information obtained this morning, a freight train was moving over the crossing as the taxi approached. As the box cars ceased to flicker past the taxi shot forward only to crash into a string of flatcars that were sandwiched into the freight.

The automobile was almost completely wrecked.

The freight was brought to a stop and members of the crew returned to assist the taxi man in extricating his machine. An ambulance was summoned and McOwen rushed to St. Francis hospital where it was found that his injuries, while exceedingly painful, were not serious. No bones were broken.

Frank Giller, driver of the car, informed Robert Kane, by whom he is employed, that he believed the train to have cleared the crossing.

Except for minor bruises and a severe shaking up the driver was not injured.

HAMON ASSOCIATE ON STAND DESPITE STATE'S PROTEST

Planned to Indict Ketch as Accessory; Testimony Brings Immunity is Claim

CLARA HAMON TO TELL HER STORY ON WITNESS STAND

Will be Last Witness Introduced by the Defense

ARDMORE, Okla. — Frank L. Ketch, formerly business manager for Jake L. Hamon and now administrator for his estate, went on the witness stand in the trial for murder here Monday of Clara Smith Hamon, over objection of the assistant county attorney, J. L. Hodge, who announced that developments Saturday were such as to indicate that Ketch would be charged as an accessory after the fact of Hamon's murder. Judge Champion ruled Ketch should testify, however, and after he left the stand, S. P. Freeling, state attorney general, said that the witness under the law, had been rendered immune by the fact he had testified on the stand.

Ketch testified that under Jake Hamon's instructions he had drawn $5,000 from his personal account, given it to Clara Hamon on the day following Hamon's shooting in the hotel suite he occupied with the young woman and had told her to leave Ardmore and remain away.

Hamon Urged Secrecy

Ketch said on the witness stand that Hamon at first told him that he had shot himself accidently and in a moment changed that statement to one that Clara Hamon had fired the bullet and that the matter should be hushed up and Clara gotten away as Mrs. Hamon and the children would come to Ardmore as soon as they heard of the affair.

The defendant was in the court room early. She was dressed in the blue serge suit and sailor hat she wore on the opening day of her trial.

Mrs. Jake L. Hamon, the widow, leaning on her son's arm and in full mourning, came into the court room a moment before court opened. She

DIETZ, DEFENDER OF CAMERON DAM, ASKS PARDON OF BLAINE

MADISON. — Governor Blaine will probably consider the application for pardon of John F. Dietz at his next pardon hearing. Dietz was sentenced to Waupun in 1910 for life charged with the killing of Oscar Harp.

Dietz claimed to be defending his own property. Hundreds of letters have been received at the executive office asking for pardon and he has now filed a personal application. If all the necessary papers are filed in time the pardon hearing for Dietz will be on April 6.

ESCH IS READY TO TAKE OFFICE WHEN CONFIRMED

Newly Appointed Member of Interstate Commerce Commission is Home

HE REFUSES TO COMMENT ON LA FOLLETTE TACTICS

Will Continue Home in La Crosse at Least for a Year

Former Congressman John J. Esch, nominated by President Harding for member of the interstate commerce commission, arrived home Saturday night, and Monday had a busy day in his office here receiving the congratulations of friends and answering dozens of congratulatory telegrams and letters received from men in all walks of life, in all parts of the country.

"Just when I will assume office depends upon the action of the senate," said Mr. Esch. "If the nomination is confirmed today I will make plans to leave for Washington the latter part of the week or early next week.

"If Senator La Follette succeeds in holding up the confirmation of the appointment, it cannot again be considered until the new congress convenes in April."

Mr. Esch had no comments to make on the action of Senator La Follette in holding up the confirmation.

Mr. Esch said that for the ballance of the year, at least, he would retain his home in La Crosse, and even if he finally moved his family to Washington he would continue to designate this city as his place of residence.

"There is only one city in the country that is home to me, and that is La Crosse, Wisconsin," he said.

To just what divisions of the interstate commerce commission he will be assigned, the La Crosse man is not informed.

In dividing up the work of the commission there are divisions on tariffs, finance, safety appliances, accounting and other features. Each division is handled by three commissioners. One commissioner may be a member of two or three divisions.

As now constituted there are eleven members of the interstate commerce commission. Mr. Esch is the ninth member named, and President Harding must still appoint two commissioners.

Work of the interstate commerce commission is continuous. The summer vacation period lasts a month or six weeks, and this will be the only time which Mr. Esch can enjoy in his home city.

CUT GASOLINE PRICES

NEW YORK.—The Standard Oil company of New York Monday reduced the price of gasoline one cent a gallon, making the wholesale price 26 cents a gallon.

CONVICTED OF CRIME AGAINST CROWN FORCES

Two Pay Death Penalty for Murder and Four for Treason in Killing of British Officers

WORK SUSPENDED IN CITY DURING ENTIRE MORNING

Twenty Thousand Gather at Prison During Time of the Executions

DUBLIN.—Six prisoners convicted of complicity in the killing of the British intelligence officers and members of the crown forces, in Ireland, were executed in Mount Joy prison Monday morning. The men were hanged in pairs at intervals of an hour.

Twenty thousand people gathered outside the prison during the hours that the executions were going on and all work in the city stopped until 11 o'clock. Even the postoffice was closed and telegraph service suspended.

The scene in front of the prison was impressive. The crowd began assembling at dawn and by 6 o'clock the prison yard was packed. An hour later the crowd had filled the roadways leading to the prison. An altar had been improvised near the prison doors and on the walls and trees in the prison yard sacred images and pictures had been placed.

Soldiers on Guard

Everywhere candles were burned, scores of persons holding them aloft throughout the long vigil. Here and there priests or women led in prayer or hymns in which everyone joined earnestly. Hundreds kneeling in the roadway were forced to rise when an armored car forced its way through the crowd. From five o'clock it had moved back and forth in front of the prison. On the roof of the jail, overlooking the entrance, a castiron sentry box had been erected over night from which a soldier kept watch on the crowd.

Two of the men executed, Patrick Moran and Thomas Whelan, were charged with complicity in the killing of intelligence officers in Dublin on November 21 last. Whelan's two brothers are in the United States, one of them in the American army. The other four men, Frank Flood, Bernard Ryan, Thomas Bryan and Patrick Doyle, were accused of participating in an ambush near here in January, in which one member of the attacking party was killed.

Whole Country Aroused

Not since the executions following the 1916 uprising with the possible exception of the hanging of Kevin Barry in November last, for an attack on a military escort, has Ireland been more profoundly stirred. Although six o'clock had been set for the execution of the first pair, it was not until 8:20 that the crowd knew the fate of the prisoners. At that time the following notice was posted outside the jail gates:

"The sentence of the law passed on Thomas Whelan and Patrick Doyle, found guilty of murder, and Thomas Bryan, Patrick Moran, Frank Flood and Bernard Ryan, found guilty of high treason in levying war, has been carried into execution."

No hint reached the watching multitude of the grim proceedings going on in a distant wing of the big prison, but hourly, beginning at six o'clock, the rosary was recited. But for a number of reverent voices and the occasional sob of a woman, profound silence was maintained.

Shortly after posting of the notice that the executions had been carried out, the vast gathering dispersed silently, many later attending the funeral of Patrick Doyle's twin baby. Mrs. Doyle, with the other twin in her arms, visited her husband Sunday to say good-bye.

Mrs. Bryan, who was taken suddenly ill before her husband's sentence was confirmed, was not told until Sunday that he was to be executed. She was conveyed to the prison Sunday afternoon for a farewell visit.

Troops on Alert

Every church was crowded at masses celebrated after the executions for the repose of the souls of the six men.

The atmosphere of the city is rife with anxiety and expectation of developments to follow the hangings. Except for a few lorry loads of military on the alert with rifles at "Ready" there was a conspicuous absence of crown forces on the streets and not an unarmed soldier was visible.

FISK COMPANY BACK ON FULL-TIME OPERATION

CHICOPEE, Mass.—The Fisk Rubber company, which has been operating on a three-day schedule since December 1, Monday resumed full time and a wage reduction averaging ten per cent on both day and piece work was put into effect. About 1,800 employes are affected.

ARMOUR ANNOUNCES PLAN FOR ELECTIVE ARBITRATION BOARD

"Industrial Democracy" to be Established at Packing House

EMPLOYES AT WORK PENDING SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTE

Wage Cut for "Big Five" Plants Effective Today

CHICAGO, Ill.—Armour & Company Monday called an election in all of its plants for Tuesday for the employes to elect representatives to form an industrial democracy in which employers and employes would have equal representation and which would settle all matters of working conditions, wages and hours in the Armour plants.

The representatives elected will form a temporary board which will work out permanent plans. The announcement of the packing company said it was planned eventually to have a plant conference board of five members in each plant and a general conference board of three members selected from all plants.

The outline of the proposed plan as given out by Armour & Company said that when the representatives of employer and employes could not agree on any matter the question could be referred to an arbitrator.

Await Settlement

While awaiting the outcome of mediation plans and the result of a strike vote, employes in the packing plants of Chicago, and their leading branches in the middle west, had decided to go to work under the reduced scale announced by the five leading packers, which goes into effect Monday. More than 100,000 men are affected by the reductions of 15 and 12½ per cent in the hourly rate and piece-work rate respectively, with time and a half for overtime only after ten hours.

"Any assumption that we are attempting to establish a ten-hour day is wrong," said a statement from Armour & Company today in answer to charges of union leaders. The whistle in the Armour plants will continue to blow at the end of eight hours' work each day."

Leaders Discourage Strike

At mass meetings held in half a dozen packing centers Sunday the workers were advised to remain at work until the strike vote was completed, which, it was said, would be about Friday. Union leaders suggested Friday, March 18, as the date for the proposed conference in Washington of representatives of employers and employes with J. J. Davis, secretary of labor. According to reports here, Secretary Davis has yet received but one official response from the packers to his mediation proposal. Wilson & Company agreed to send two representatives.

In a drastic shake-up of the police department, Captain W. H. Westbrook was on duty today in the stockyards police district, because of his ability to cope with labor troubles, Chief of Police Fitzmorris said.

"Our cut in wages is small when compared with other firms," said the statement of Armour & Company. "We have a list of twenty-one other firms reducing wages where the decreases run from fourteen to thirty-three per cent. The stockholders of Armour & Company could not dodge the fact that we are losing money. That is why wages are reduced.

Deny Ten-Hour Day

"Any assertion that we are attempting to establish a ten-hour day is wrong. The guarantee of extra pay for overtime after fifty-four hours in any one week makes this impossible. The butcher workmen in this industry are entitled to forty-eight hours' wage earnings per week and the adjustment in the hours of labor is to enable them to get it. The average working time in the killing gangs in the past year has been forty-two hours. Under the new arrangement a worker will be able to earn a substantial increase."

Thousands of packing house employes marched in the rain "back of the yards" here Sunday afternoon, and later listened to outdoor speeches of union leaders, who urged them not to start a "runaway strike."

Packing house employes in Fort Worth, Kansas City and Sioux City, also decided at mass meetings yesterday to go to work today pending completion of the strike vote. Employes in the Omaha plants planned to hold a meeting tonight to discuss their action. The wage cut will be delayed until April 1 in the plants at St. Louis and St. Joseph, Mo., it was stated, because of a state law requiring thirty days' notice for wage reductions for employes of manufacturing concerns.

CALL CHIEFS TO TESTIFY DEMAND OF RAIL UNIONS

Testimony of Executives Essential to Fair Hearing Railway Labor Board is Told

OPEN HEARING ON ABOLITION OF NATIONAL AGREEMENTS

Labor to Present its Side of the Case at Chicago Meeting

CHICAGO, Ill.—The railroad labor board Monday requested four railroad heads to appear before it Wednesday morning to testify in the hearing over the national agreements. The men summoned were T. Dewitt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railroad executives; W. W. Atterbury, vice-president of the Pennsylvania; Cary R. Gray president of the Union Pacific and R. S. Binkerd, assistant to Mr. Cuyler.

The committee ordered Mr. Binkerd to bring with him the minutes, letters, recommendations and other records having to do with the proceedings of the labor committee of the Association of Railroad Executives, having to do with the dispute over national agreements.

CHICAGO Ill.—Railroad labor unions Monday notified the United States railway labor board that they would not proceed with the hearing over national agreements unless the board complied with their request to subpoena various railroad executives to appear before the board.

Frank P. Walsh attorney for the railroad brotherhoods, told the board at the opening of the session that he was "greatly surprised to find that his request for subpoenaes had not been complied with and that it was useless for the labor side to go on with its testimony. The testimony of the railroad heads was essential to a fair hearing, he said.

Charges Attack on Unions

Mr. Walsh referred to the labor situation in the packing industry, charging that the packers had "joined with the Morgans and Garys and railroad heads in a concerted attempt to ruin labor unions forever."

The board adjourned at 10:25 a. m. and went into executive session to consider Mr. Walsh's statements. Henry T. Hunt of the public group of the board, said he believed subpoenas would be issued, but the board wanted to do it in "a courteous way."

Hear Labor's Case

The board was prepared Monday morning to continue hearings on the rebutral of labor chiefs to the rail managers' plea for the nullification of the agreements on the ground that they imposed wasteful practices upon the roads and constituted a financial burden which headed the transportation systems of the country for insolvency. B. M. Jewell, president of the railroad department of the American Federation of Labor, Frank P. Walsh, counsel, and W. Jett Lauck, economist, were to present labor's arguments against the proposal. Presentation of the workers' reply will require seven weeks, according to the union chiefs.

Appeal to Cummins

Seven officials of railroad labor organizations, including Mr. Jewell, last night wired United States Senator Cummins, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, indorsing the senator's proposal for a congressional investigation of the transportation situation, and requesting that labor organizations be given a hearing in such an inquiry. The message charged that nine men control and have dictated the policy of all the railways of the country in the wage question.

"Railroad labor stands for industrial warfare and revolution," the message concluded.

CONFIRMATION OF ESCH DELAYED TILL SPECIAL SESSION

WASHINGTON.—An agreement was reached in the senate executive session Monday to postpone until the extra session of congress the question of confirming former Representative J. J. Esch of Wisconsin as interstate commerce commissioner.

Senator La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, who is opposing the confirmation, asked for the extension of time in order to file a minority report from the senate interstate commerce comission against Mr. Esch.

BURGLARS ENTER MOLL AND BARTL HOMES ON SUNDAY

Automatic Shotgun Only Loot; are Scared off by Return of Captain Moll

JIMMY OPEN WINDOW IN HOUSE ACROSS STREET

Bag Dropped at Moll Home Indicates Flight in Hurry

BURGLARS, late Saturday night or early Sunday morning, entered the home of Captain Norman Moll, Seventeenth and Cass streets, and attempted to force an entrance at the home of Ed. C. Bartl, 238 South Seventeenth street a neighbor.

Either Saturday night or Sunday the barber shop of Barney Borseth, 1320 South Eighth street was also entered. According to Mr. Borseth today, nothing of value was taken although over $40.00 in cash was in the shop at the time.

A rumor that an arrest had been made in connection with the Borseth case was denied by John D. Webber, chief of police.

At the Moll residence their loot consisted of an automatic shotgun and leather case, valued at $120. That their haul was limited to the shotgun and case was probably due to the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Moll, returning between 10:30 and 11:00 o'clock in the evening, interrupted their work.

Dropped Bag in Flight

A traveling bag belonging to Mrs. Moll, open, was found in a hallway, indicating it had been dropped when the prowlers heard the Molls entering their home.

Investigation showed that entrance had been gained by forcing the key from a door leading into the basement. A skeleton key was used to open the basement door and from there they easily made their way into the upper stories.

The attempted robbery at the Bartl residence was not discovered until Sunday morning when it was noticed that a storm window had been removed from the rear of the house and the window casing showed signs of a burglar's "jimmy."

Scared Off by Return

Mr. and Mrs. Bartl had been guests at a party Saturday night, not returning home until after midnight. It is presumed Mr. Bartl, in putting his car into the garage, frightened the prowlers.

The police have been notified but have made no arrests.

It became known today that the residence of D. G. MacMillan, Twelfth and Cass streets was entered a short time ago. The MacMillans are out of the city and what, if any, valuables were taken cannot be determined until they return.

"U" STUDENTS AID DRY OFFICIALS IN RAIDS AT MADISON

They were placed under $500 bonds to assure their later appearance.

EXTEND TIME TO SAVE PLANT UNTIL TUESDAY

Success of First Day's Campaign to Keep Plant in La Crosse to be Known Tonight

RAPID WORK IS NECESSARY TO PUT OVER THE BIG DEAL

La Crosse Can Raise this Money if it Wills, Says D. W. MacWillie

Over 100 committeemen are out in the city today making an earnest effort to solicit stock subscriptions totaling $750,000 to keep the plant of the La Crosse Tractor company in La Crosse.

The campaign was launched following a preliminary mass meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room Saturday night.

At noon announcement was made at headquarters that another meeting of boosters for the plan to keep this big factory in La Crosse will be held in the Chamber of Commerce building at 7:30 tonight. Every person interested in the welfare of the city is invited to attend this meeting.

Time is Extended

At the same time it became known that the time for the sale of stock in the new company here has been extended to Tuesday noon.

A spectacular feature which marked the campaign Monday was the appearance on the streets of the city of several tractors, driven by employes of the company and members of the committee. D. W. MacWillie was one of the campaign boosters who handled the reins on one of the tractor trains. Perched on the high seat of a wagon he started, guided and stopped the tractor in front of him quite like a man driving a team of horses.

Selling the Tractor

It is the La Crosse tractor, not the company, which the committee today is attempting to sell to citizens of this municipality, in order to retain here a big factory employing between 100 and 250 skilled workers and having an average payroll of $400,000.

The machine driven about the streets today is the perfected tractor which bears the reputation of being one of the best machines made in the United States.

Under the plan laid down by the committee if the factory remains here, the La Crosse Tractor corporation will take over the business, a new manager will be engaged and the company will be placed on a sound financial basis by a committee of bankers and prominent citizens.

Big Meeting Tonight

Reports concerning the success of the drive today will be presented at the meeting tonight, and plans will be perfected for the remaining hours of the campaign Tuesday morning.

Word came from Oshkosh Monday morning that an intensive drive is being conducted in that city today to complete the financing of the company there which has made a bid for the business of the La Crosse Tractor company with the intention of moving the plant to that city.

Fast Work Required

That rapid work is required here, if La Crosse would keep this plant, is the declaration of leaders of the drive.

"The possibility of raising $750,000 in La Crosse in two days has been questioned," said Mr. MacWillie. "I recall that citizens here subscribed $1,500,000 in one Liberty bond drive and $1,000,000 in another. And several times during the war we gave from $100,000 to $150,000 to some organization interested in welfare work among the soldiers. The money is here and can be obtained for investment in a going business if we subscribe it."

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS CALLED FOR APRIL THE 11

WASHINGTON. — Congress will be called into special session Monday, April eleventh, Senator Lodge announced at the white house Monday after a conference with President Harding.

BADGERS SEEKING THEIR SHARE OF U. S. PATRONAGE

Flood of Letters Asking Government Positions Received by Wisconsin Congressmen

ONE CHAIRMANSHIP IN NEW BADGER DELEGATION

Lampert Heads Committee on Patents; Frear Dean of Group

BY BETTY PRUETT FARRINGTON

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The rush to the patronage pie counter is in full swing now that the new administration has taken hold. From Wisconsin the flood of letters from aspiring republicans continues to consume the thoughts of those members of the delegation who are remaining for the few weeks from the time of the special session.

Among the long list of persons on the president's daily engagement card have appeared the names of several Wisconsin people. Senator Irvine L. Lenroot was among them. Representative-elect Henry Allen Cooper of Racine was another.

John J. Esch of La Crosse, one person from Wisconsin who is certain to receive a berth in the new administration, has packed up his duds and returned to his home. He was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Marie Esch, who came to Washington just prior to the inauguration.

George Esch of Sparta, brother of the former congressman who has been secretary of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, has an opportunity to retain his position. But if his brother is appointed to the interstate commerce commission, he will propably receive a position in that branch of the government.

Harold McCoy of Sparta, son of the democratic candidate for governor of Wisconsin last fall, left with Mr. Esch but will remain in Washington until he finishes his studies. He had several other positions offered to him.

James G. Monahan has closed his office and leaves on the week-end for Tulsa, Oklahoma, where he has relatives. When the warm weather returns, he will return to Madison.

Clifford R. Randall of Kenosha has also left.

The new comers and those returning are the recipients of requests for political favors. They are receiving letters daily relative to postmasterships. One member of the delegation, to illustrate the extent to which many of these smaller jobs were in demand, said that from one small town in Wisconsin whose business life centered around but two stores he had received two petitions bearing about 150 names apiece for different candidates for the postmastership.

The distribution patronage of a local nature is handled by the members in the house. The postmasterships are theirs to divide among the hungry patronage pie eaters. The senators have what is called a veto of these appointments. That is to say, they can interfere with appointments, particularly in their own towns or districts, which are particularly distasteful to them. Such action, however, is not the rule.

At the present, the excitement ranges chiefly about whether or not the president will rescind the executive order of his predecessor placing all but first class postmasterships within the civil service. That he will take such action is the general belief. It is understood, however, that in any event the incumbents will have to qualify for their office in an examination.

William Deyhe, postmaster of Madison, has the support of the leaders of the delegation so that when his present term expires he probably will be reappointed by the new administration. His work is spoken of in the highest terms on all sides such as almost to assure him continuance in office.

* * * *

One Wisconsin man who has been talked of for high honors is Guy D. Goff, who was at one time district attorney of Wisconsin. He is at present counsel for the United States shipping board, but will probably relinquish that place upon the nomination of a new board. He has been talked of for solicitor general of the United States.

* * * *

The new Wisconsin delegation in the house probably will boast of but one committee chairman in the new congress. Representative Florian Lampert of Wisconsin will ascend to the chairmanship of the committee on patents as the present chairman, Representative John I. Nolan of California in turn moves to the head of the committee on labor. In the last congress, Mr. Lampert was chairman of the committee on the election of the president, vice president and members of congress.

* * * *

The progressive wing of the republican party will predominate in the Wisconsin delegation in the new congress with many old La Follette leaders returning. Representative James A. Frear of Hudson takes the place of John J. Esch of La Crosse as the dean of the delegation.

Mr. Frear has been occupying himself with an exhaustive study of the sales tax. He is prepared to fight the incorporation of even a suggestion of that tax in the revised revenue law proposed by the republicans as one of their first steps.

He will sit with the house ways and means committee of which he is a member when the committe begins work next week. At that time it will probably begin framing a so-called stop-gap tariff law to prevent a flood of imports from abroad in anticipation of a high tariff.

* * * *

Representative Adolphus P. Nelson will probably take up his fight again for a personal rural credits bill designed especially to aid the farmers. Although no action on the proposed measure was taken in the last session of congress, doubtlessly it will come up in the new congress.

* * * *

Senator Robert M. La Follette will probably figure in the fight against vast naval expenditures as contemplated by the senate naval committee. The naval appropriation bill, which died owing to the opposition of some senators to the expenditure of millions more on the battleships of the 1916 program, will be considered early in the senate in the special session.

STAGE DEMANDS REAL CALLING--ROBERTSON

Famous Actor Deplores Present Situation of Profession and Drama

"No one should aspire to the stage unless he feels 'called' to it in the Biblical sense, unless he is so imbued with the understanding of life and of mankind that he feels 'called' to interpret life," said Donald Robertson, famous actor, in a talk at the Normal school on Friday.

Mr. Robertson prefers to be called a "player" since in the present day "every little flirt with attractive ankles who struts across the stage is called an actor," he said. "The player's art is as old as life itself, it began with the first child. The first players recorded in history practiced their art in honor of the gods of Greece as part of the fall festival of thanksgiving. That is significant of the truly noble purpose of the stage whose service is to hold the mirror up to nature."

Too Many Seek Aumsement

"It is deplorable," said the speaker, "that young people are being taught to seek amusement rather than enjoyment. From Atlantic to Pacific tonight thousands are trying to kill time. Have we so many hours that we can afford to kill one? There was a little nation of forty thousand once that erected a theater that seated thirty-five thousand. Thirty-five thousand people at a single sitting enjoyed what? The Follies of 1921? The Scandals of 1832? No. The mighty plays of Aeschylus and of Sophocles."

Mr. Robertson quoted the Bible rather more than he did Shakespeare. In his deeply earnest manner he impressed upon his audience the gravity of the present day situation of the stage. He spoke of the "money changers in the temple" who have "forced the departure of art."

Normal Notes

A very interesting program was given in assembly Friday morning. The entertainment consisted of two vocal solos by Miss Dorothy Woods, a solo dance by Miss Maud Jarvis, and an encore in which she danced an aesthetic dance to the tune of "Margie." Next was a dance by Miss Lucile Rahr and Miss Ruth Croak. The last number was two vocal selections by the Girl's Glee Club.

Many of the basket ball players who were here for the tournament visited the school on Thursday and Friday.

The Advanced Freshman Phy. Eds. had the privilege of selling ice cream and candy during the tournament. The proceeds of the sale are to go into a relief fund.

The regular club meetings which were to be held on Friday afternoon and evening were called off because of the tournament.

The cast of the French play has been chosen and rehearsals will begin at once. "Lesfromanesques" is the title of the play to be given this year.

The Ruskin Club is also planning to put on a play some time before the end of the semester.

Esther Graf has accepted a position as teacher of the first and second grades at Norwalk.

WAINWRIGHT SLATED AS WAR BUREAU AIDE

WASHINGTON, D. C.—J. Mayhew Wainwright, a New York lawyer, is understood to have been selected as assistant secretary of war.

FIRM BELIEF IN GOD FOUNDATION OF ALL RELIGION

Evangelist Harkness Opens Series of Meetings at the First Methodist Church

Following in part is the sermon preached Sunday night at the First Methodist church by the Rev. A. M. Harkness, the first of his revival series.

The audience present was a large and attentive one. The subject of last night's sermon was "God in the Beginning."

In the Beginning God—Gen. 1:1

"God is in the beginning of all life. A short time ago we were exercised over the statement of the evolutionist regarding the beginning of life, but now we have come to the conclusion that the Genesis statement, that in the beginning God created the fish, the beasts and the birds that he also created man.

"These are days in which we are giving more earnest attention to what God's word says, than we are to the attention of what man says about God's word. The day is past when the conflict between science and religion are in controversy about the beginning of things. Not long ago we called men philosophers who would stand up and tell us that we had evolved from a monkey to a man, but now we would call a man a fool who tries to come forward with the old story of the theory of evolution. The fact of the matter has been that even the man who believed in evolution never called it a science. It was only a theory.

"God is in the beginning of all history. You might as well try to write the history of the United States and leave out the name of George Washington, as to try to write the history of the world and leave the name of Jesus Christ out. All the history A. D. and B. C. centers around on pivots, upon the birth, death and resurrection of Christ.

The Model Man

"God is in the beginning of all morality. The model man of today who boasts of the fact that he pays his debts, takes care of his family, keeps out of jail, is a law-abiding citizen, lives in a beautiful country like this, with all the comforts of modern civilization, and yet has no time for the church, no time for prayer, no time for God, no time for the bible—I would like to remind him that the preaching of Jesus Christ upon the cross preceded all this.

"Go into foreign lands today where the bible is not honored, where Jesus is not preached, and see what you have. Here is another man who boasts of his great education, and who is literally putting his knowledge of worldly things in the place of God in his life. Let this man-made man go into a land where they know nothing about Christ and the bible and have no Christianity, and see for himself that God is the beginning of all wisdom.

Willing To Go Far

"I am willing to make enemies for the glory of God. I am willing to do what even the conservative people here say would be the unwise thing, when I can see far enough ahead to see the will of God, and to know that in the doing of that thing, God will be golrified. Abraham did the unwise thing—he went into a land not knowing where he went. God honored him for it. Noah did the unwise thing—he built the ark, and the people never saw one drop of rain. I expect there are people here who will say that these meetings are a waste of time and money, but the man who says that is putting money first, and God afterwards. There are perhaps some folks whose feelings may be hurt.

"In these meetings it is not to be the magnetism of the preacher that is to win. If we are looking for that and believing in that, we are not putting God first. We may all work hard and some of us no doubt will, but don't think that you or any one else, or anything is to be glorified—only God. We are only God's mouth-piece in all this work. When men turn from the old pathway of sin, it is the power of God that is working in their hearts, and it is that which will turn this old world right side up. We may have all the prayers, and songs and sermons in the world, but without God and they will never bring you a spiritual revival. We of ourselves can do nothing, but if God is given first place in the lives and hearts of people GOD CAN SHAKE THIS PLACE.

"You might put the greatest entertainer on this platform for three weeks, and the crowd will soon begin to leave, but you can take the old fashioned gospel of Jesus Christ and win out, and at the close of the meetings men and women will be saying—'I wish it was only the beginning.' Why—because—in the beginning God.

Children Must Pray

"When we raise a generation of children that do not pray, do not believe in the bible, we are on the way to a godless nation. The experience of nations that have taken the bible out of the public schools and out of the lives of the common people has been that they have gone down, and it has sometimes taken the greatest catastrophe to bring the people back to their senses. The great difficulty was that they had left God out. Go back and see what happened to Israel when they left God out, and every time you will find that they came to moments of defeat and distress.

"The only salvation of America today is an evangel that brings us back to God. We have left God out of our schools. We passed a law in this state that says your teachers cannot read the book of books in the public schools—the book from which all knowledge comes. According to the laws of this state we preachers cannot go into the public schools and teach our coming generation something about the care of their spiritual nature. We lay great stress upon the physical and the mental side of our boys and girls, but we leave the spiritual and very often the moral untouched. Yet the same law that says we cannot go into the schools and teach them religion, also says that teachers cannot go in and teach them unbelief, but they are doing it in many schools; and we tolerate it.

"We have left God out of our homes—there are people in this audience tonight who would be offended if I should question their Christianity, and yet many of them have no family altar. The day seems to have gone by in which the old family altar was in vogue. Our own children never see us with a bible on our knee, or see our boys in prayer—family altars have tumbled down.

"In some places we have left God out of our churches. Some of these institutions should never be called churches—they are nothing more or less than social clubs. Sometimes some churches tell preachers what they shall preach. They proceed to muzzle their preacher and he must do and say just what they want said.

"A great opportunity faces us at this time even as it has never faced us before. We are at a very critical time in the history of the world and of our land—we do not know what a day will bring forth. If ever there were men needed with clear insight into the mind and will of God, it is today. If men in the great European war under human leadership, many of them without a purpose to fight for, were inspired to fight until the ship sinks their feet to the water's edge, and their bodies become food for the sharks, if they will fill the trenches of Europe with their blood, and leave their bones to bleach on the sand-hills of Georgia, and will dye the snow red with their blood deep in the snow at Valley Forge, and fight to the last ditch at Gettysburg, what ought we to do under a divine leadership, under the inspiration of the greatest name and the greatest cause in the world? Fighting for a principal that is above all other principals for the glory of God, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, backed by all the forces of events in this glorious fight for the salvation of souls."

TWO ARE NAMED BY GOVERNOR TO BOARD OF NORMAL REGENTS

Gates of Superior and Mrs. Runge of Baraboo are Nominated

MADISON, Wis.—Two appointments on the board of normal regents were announced by Gov. John J. Blaine today. Clough Gates, Superior, and Mrs. Clara T. Runge, Baraboo. Both are reappointments on the board. The term is for five years. The appointments do not have to be confirmed by the senate. Both Mr. Gates and Mrs. Runge have rendered such service on the board that Gov. Blaine felt that this service merited reappointment.

Gov. Blaine also announced the appointment of Dr. S. F. Donovan, Tomah, as a member of state board of dental examiners. The appointment is to begin May 2, 1921 and the term of office is for five years. Mr. Donovan takes the place of Dr. Leonard Cleveland, Ripon. During the war Dr. Donovan was commissioned as first lieutenant of dental corps and served throughout the war.

It is expected that a number of other appointments will be made by Governor Blaine on Tuesday. Tuesday's appointments however, will be sent to senate for confirmation. The appointments announced Monday do not need confirmation.

No matter how perfect you make pancakes and waffles—what you like best is the syrup

DID you ever stop to think that what you taste most, and what you like best on your pancakes or hot biscuits or waffles—is the syrup?

In millions of households every morning Karo starts the day off for everybody. It gives just that finishing touch to the crisp brown cakes or the hot biscuits that make the meal a delight.

Karo is equally delicious for cooking, baking, candy making, or preserving. Many cooks use it to stew dried-fruit or prunes; or for candied sweet potatoes, brown breads, muffins, coffee cake or puddings.

Do you know why Dextrose is very important food?

You cannot live very long without Dextrose, the great energy food. Most of the food you eat—such as bread, starchy vegetables and all forms of sugar—has to be changed into Dextrose before your system can use it as energy food.

Karo contains a very large percentage of Dextrose—which is the most perfect form in which sugar can come. So Karo may almost be said to be a predigested food. These are scientific facts, supported by the very highest medical and food authorities. Send for the free booklet mentioned below and read all the facts.

For your boys and girls to be strong and sturdy, give them plenty of nourishing Karo—on cakes or bread.

Your Protection

Do not be deceived by cans containing syrup that might look like Karo. The name "Karo" is on every can of original Karo—look for it and be assured of full weight cans and highest quality.

BLUE Karo

The standard table syrup. Also for cooking, baking and candy making. Light brown color, delicious flavor—a heavy-bodied syrup.

RED Karo

The Ideal Syrup for every use—for cooking, baking, candy making and preserving. Because of its honey-like appearance many prefer it as a spread for cakes, biscuits, breads.

GREEN Karo

Flavored with highest grade real maple sugar. Very moderate in price—absolutely pure. The makers of Karo are the world's largest users of the highest grade maple sugar—over a thousand tons used annually.

TENDETH TO POVERTY

THERE is that scattereth, and yet increaseth; and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty.—Proverbs 11: 24.

In the Packing Industry

DECISION of both sides in the packing house controversy to accept arbitration by the department of labor helps a little. It indicates a chance that there may be some way out short of a strike and a tie-up of the meat industry which might have serious effects on the country. So it is a distinct advance, even if the packers felt it necessary to tie strings to their acceptance which seem, on the face of them, to preclude any discussion of the matters to be arbitrated. Talking it over, even if both sides go into the conference belligerent, is a necessary and useful preliminary to settlement of any industrial dispute.

Armour and Company's proposed establishment of an "industrial democracy" in their plants, with workers and management equally represented, comes at a time when it is almost certain not to be examined on its merits. The packing house employes are on their mettle to defend the agreements and working conditions they have obtained through their unions, and it is as sure as anything can be that in union quarters the "industrial democracy" suggestion will be viewed as an effort to supplant the union.

The plan, according to the general outline of it available in dispatches, seems generous and fair to the workers. But the time for proposing it is not now. A month ago, before the packers got into the present muss over wage cuts and hour extensions, it might have been accepted; a month from now, after the muss has been adjusted by arbitration or a test of strength, it might go through. But to launch it now is simply to throw what might become a useful agency for peace and content in the industry to the lions.

Proving it to France?

LIGHT upon a situation which appears little short of an absurdity may be cast by recent cables from Europe which interpret the occupation of the Ruhr as a concession by England and Italy to France's itch for invasion to enforce the present reparations demand. That to consent was the one way to show France the futility of such a course is an opinion ascribed to Lloyd George, who is credited with planning to bring the United States into a subsequent settlement of the whole matter. Evidence that occupation collections will no more than pay the cost of invasion is already being produced, and that France will soon be ready to surrender the expedition and turn to other means is predicted.

In such a case America would be in a strong position. It could afford a new leadership and a new influence for sensible adjustment. With debts owing us from Europe, and with our great stake in the profits of peace, we can hardly afford to decline an invitation, if indeed it is wise for us to refrain from volunteering our good offices.

Probably Wise

THE defeat of the bill to deprive taxpayers of the offset of their personal property tax, in the assembly committee on taxation, was probably wise. At least, if we were wise when we arrived at the conclusion that a man's income, or ability to pay, is the proper measure of taxation, to remove the offset would be wise.

It is possible to defend the bill upon the theory that too much personal wealth escapes taxation, and upon the expedient that the state needs more money. However, it will be difficult to convince the average man that he should be taxed at once upon his income and his evidences of the capital from which he derives it. In all probability, if we are to be governed by broad lines of public policy, we shall have to admit that unless the whole idea of the income tax is wrong the way to get more taxes is to assess income more heavily. Having discredited the theory of the personal property tax in the fight they waged for the income tax, progressive republicans may expect to have trouble in justifying a reversion to the discarded idea. It still holds good that the personal property tax reaches the honest man and lets the dodger get away, and that the assessment system makes possible discrimination and error in personal property taxation which are hardly possible in the comparatively simple system of arriving at income taxes.

Lumping the Lot

ONE can not be at all certain that the rural credits bill and the measure affording assistance to settlers in northern Wisconsin should have been swept out with the deluge of experimental legislation.

It is true that Wisconsin farmers stand in less urgent need of a rural credits system than did those of the Dakotas, but to say off-hand that the Badger farmer already has ample credit is a hazard. The paper of the average run of farmers is not coveted by banks, because payment is so often dependent upon crop successes, a speculative matter, that farm notes are not the most liquid form of security. Therefore when there is competition between city and country for loans the farmer is apt to be put off.

The development of vast areas of land in northern Wisconsin means immense wealth to the state, and recognition of the difficulties encountered in reducing it to cultivation is not an improper state policy. Unless encouraged to remain here and develop our waste land, young farmers are certain to seek land in other states. Wisconsin is worth making the best of, and there is a community of interest among citizens who are drawn upon for the state's revenues.

Doubtless measures for state adventures in the realm of private business were intended for slaughter, and if the signs are propitious their assassination will be dug up some two years hence as evidence that "the people have been betrayed." The present outlook, however, is that by that time such proposals will have reached their anti-climax due to the culmination of disasters now impending in North Dakota. Indeed, with the latter spectacular experiment on the verge of ruin, it seems probable that if the authors of the Wisconsin bill thought its passage imminent they would run to cover with it. When the team is running away Senator La Follette does not hang his egg basket on the dashboard.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

St. Patrick's Day this year marks the conclusion of twenty-four years of continuous pastoral work at the St. James church for Father Ambrose Murphy who began his duties at that church March 17, 1887. This day also marks an anniversary in the work of Bishop James Schwebach who read his first solemn pontifical mass in St. Mary's church on St. Patrick's Day 1892. A big celebration of the day will take place at the La Crosse theatre in the evening when Father Dunne of Eau Claire will speak on "Irish Americans."

The purchase of the land along the river front from the wagon bridge to Spear's boat livery by Mr. Spears may result in modern improvements for Pettibone park if plans of local motorists materialize. Suggestions as to the use of Pettibone park as a place to keep motor boats have met with the approval of local boat owners and an effort will be made to secure a strip along the bank of the new park for that purpose. The plan is to construct a dock and several boathouses below the bathhouse.

Walter E. Mueller, a La Crosse boy, will leave this evening for Cumberland, Md., where he will superintend an apple orchard belonging to the Interstate Orchard company of which he is the organizer and which has La Crosse capital.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The local association of druggists met in the small council chamber of the city hall last night and made arrangements for entertaining the state association which meets in this city early in August. The entertainment program will consist of launch rides, athletic games and carriage rides and a banquet.

La Crosse is now inaccessible to the Minnesota farmers who use the Hokah road to reach this city. The Root river bridge is below water and has been abandoned by the farmers. The Root river is on one of the worst rampages of its history and every bridge in that section is threatened with destruction.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Olson, former residents of this city but now of Minneapolis, passed through La Crosse last evening on their way to New York where they will take an ocean liner for Europe. They contemplate making a trip around the world.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Miss Rose Keefe's school of stenography opened today.

Thomas Morris has been elected attorney for the Home Mutual Building and Loan association.

During the sojourn of Dr. Ottilie in Europe this summer, his position as government marine surgeon will be filled by Dr. Tiedeman.

Robert Draper, an old settler of La Crosse, and the first sawyer to work in a La Crosse mill, died Monday morning at his home on South Eighth street.

Bids for the construction of a city hall were opened today at the office of the board of public works. There were eleven in all and that of Joseph Schwalbe and Son was the lowest. This firm's bid was $85,400.

A Man For the Ages

BY

Irving Bacheller

(Copyright 1919 by Irving Bacheller)

"He said that he wanted to win the confidence and esteem of his fellow citizens. This he hoped to accomplish by doing something which would make him worthy of it. He had been thinking of the county. A railroad would do more for it than anything else, but a railroad would be too costly. The improvement of the Sangamon river was the next best thing. Its channel could be straightened and cleared of driftwood and made navigable for small vessels under thirty tons' burden. He favored a usury law and said, in view of the talk he had just heard, he was going to favor the improvement and building of schools, so that every one could learn how to read, at least, and learn for himself what is in the Bible and other great books. It was a modest statement and we all liked it."

"Whatever happens to the Sangamon, one statement in that platform couldn't be improved," said Kelso.

"What is that?" Abe asked.

"It's the one that says you wish to win the regard of your fellows by serving them."

"It's a lot better than saying that he wishes to serve Abe," said Dr. Allen, a remark which referred to a former conversation with Abe, in which Kelso had had a part.

"You can trust Abe to take the right turn at every fork in the road," Kelso went on. "If you stick to that, my boy, and continue to study, you'll get there and away beyond any goal you may now see. A passion for service is more than half the battle. Since the other night at the tavern I've been thinking about Abe and the life we live here. I've concluded that we're all very lucky, if we are a bit lonesome."

"I'd like to know about that," said Sarah. "I'm a little in need of encouragement."

"Well, you may have observed that Abe has a good memory," he continued. "While I try to be modest about it, my own memory is a fairly faithful servant. It is due to the fact that since I left the university I have lived, mostly, in lonely places. It is a great thing to be where the register of your mind is not overburdened by the flow of facts. Abe's candidacy is the only thing that has happened here since Samson's raising, except the arriving and departure of Elphalet Biggs. Our memories are not weakened by overwork. They have time for big undertakings—like Burns and Shakespeare and Blackstone."

"I've noticed that facts get kind o' slippery when they come in a bunch, as they did on our journey," said Samson. "Seems so they wore each other smooth and got hard to hold."

"Ransom Prigg used to say it was easy enough to ketch eels, but it was powerful hard to hold 'em," Abe remarked. "He caught three eels in a trap one day and the trap busted and let 'em loose in the boat. He kept grabbin' and tusslin' around the boat till the last eel got away. 'I never had such a slippery time in all the days o' my life,' said Rans. 'One eel is a dinner, but three eels is jest a lot o' slippin' an' disapp'intment.'"

"That's exactly the point I make," said Kelso. "A man with too many eels in the boat will have none for dinner. The city man is at a great disadvantage. Events slip away from him and leave nothing. His intellect gets the habit of letting go. It loses its power to seize and hold. His impressions are like footprints on a beach. They are washed away by the next tide."

There was much talk at the fireside after dinner, all of which doubtless had an effect on the fortunes of the good people who sat around it, and the historian must sort the straws, and with some regret, for bigger things are drawing near in the current. Samson and Sarah had been telling of their adventures on the long road.

"We are all movers," said Kelso. "We can not stay where we are for a single day—not if we are alive. Most of us never reach that eminence from which we discover the littleness of ourselves and our troubles and achievements and the immensities of power and wisdom by which we are surrounded."

At least one of that company was to remember the words in days of adversity and triumph. Soon after that dinner the memories of the little community began to register an unusual procession of thrilling facts.

Early in April an Indian scare spread from the capital to the remotest corners of the state. Black Hawk, with many warriors, had crossed the Mississippi and was moving toward the Rock River country. Governor Reynolds called for volunteers to check the invasion.

Abe, whose address to the voters had been printed in the Sangamon Journal, joined a volunteer company and soon became its captain. On the tenth of April he and Harry Needles left for Richmond to go into training. Samson was eager to go, but could not leave his family.

Bim Kelso rode out into the fields where Harry was at work the day before he went away.

"This is a great surprise," said Harry. "I don't see you any more except at a distance."

"I don't see you either."

"I didn't think you wanted to see me."

"You're easily discouraged," she said, looking down with a serious face.

"You made me feel as if I didn't want to live any longer."

"I reckon I'm mean. I made myself feel a million times worse. It's awful to be such a human as I am. Some days I'm plum scared o' myself."

"I'm going away," the boy said, in a rather mournful tone.

GOOD TALKERS ALWAYS CHOOSE DESCRIPTIVE VERBS, SAYS TEACHER

[A "Study" Article]

Whenever Mr. Sanders tells of an experience he expresses his thoughts in such a way that his listener gets a vivid picture of just what took place.

"How does he do it?" inquired Tom of his English teacher.

"I have never met your friend, Mr. Sanders," answered the English teacher, "so I can't say for sure, but I believe his choice of words has a lot to do with it—especially his verbs."

"His verbs?" repeated Tom, somewhat puzzled.

"Yes, his verbs; verbs you know are one of the most important parts of speech. Now, perhaps you can recall someone you know who tells a really interesting story in a most commonplace way. Listen closely next time you hear him talk and see if his choice of verbs isn't poorer than Mr. Sanders.'"

"Well, what's one way of training yourself to choose better verbs?" asked Tom.

"One of the simplest I know of is the little experiment in verb substitution we used to practice when I was in college.

"We'd take some simple, plain statement of fact as 'The villian put the knife on the table.' This sentence, you see, gives you no vivid picture of the villian and his action. 'Put' is such a common word. But by substituting some verb as 'threw' or 'dropped' you draw a mind picture of the villian angrily throwing the knife, or suddenly dropping it in a surprised manner.

"The verb you use may give you a clear idea of how the action was performed, or it may not. Another example is the sentence, 'I walked out of the room.' 'Walked' is a common verb and expressed no particular kind of action, but if I say 'I dashed out of the room'—get the idea?

"When you read your next book you will notice the author does just what we've been talking about—he uses descriptive verbs to make his word pictures vivid, and that, I suppose, is why Mr. Sanders is such an entertaining talker."

GIRLHOOD STORIES OF FAMOUS WOMEN

Louise's father was a minister in Pittsburgh and Louise always participated in the church activities.

Best of all she liked to sing in the choir and when she was fourteen years old she was permitted to sing in a cantata. A small solo part was given her and she sang so beautifully that her father was told her voice held great possibilities and should be cultivated.

After years of study Louise Homer won great fame as the leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

BIG PAPER FOSTERS NEW "INDOOR SPORT" FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

In Washington, D. C., the editor of "The Boys and Girls Herald," a daily section of the big "Washington Herald," is giving the students in the grammar and high schools of the city an excellent chance to break into print with their writings.

The students get interviews from people prominent in affairs about the city, on various topics of interest to young folks, and these, with remarkably well done contributions of other types, are being printed every day in "The Boys and Girls Herald."

The young people have recognized this as an opportunity to have a lot of fun and at the same time better their written expression, as well as gain confidence in themselves in many ways, and are quickly taking advantage of it.

In Washington, writing for the "Herald" is called "the ideal indoor sport."

Whenever a "cub" reporter's story is published he is given credit by having his name and the name of his school printed at the head of the article.

A STAR IN A STONE WALL

(By Dr. William E. Barton)

Robert Frost in one of his recent poems moralizes on a stone which he found in a New England stone wall, which stone appeared to him to have been of meteoric origin. It had fallen, while hot, in the field of some New England farmer, in his own day or long before, and the farmer did not need it there, and did need it in his stone wall.

"He noticed nothing in it to remark.
He was not used to handling stars thrown dark
And lifeless through an interrupted arc.

"He moved it roughly with an iron bar;
He loaded an old stone-boat with the star
And not, as you might think, a flying car.

"He dragged it through the plowed ground at a pace
But faintly reminiscent of the race.
Of jostling rock in interstellar space.

"It went for building-stone, and I as though
Commanded in a dream forever go
To right the wrong that this should have been so.

"Yet ask where else it could have gone so well.
I do not know—I cannot stop to tell;
He might have left it lying where it fell."

He might have left it there: but he needed the soil. Likewise he needed the fence. The meteoric stone went from where it was worse than useless to where it served a purpose.

And yet it might have served some worthier use. I have a fine old Indian mortar which a farmer found in the Kentucky mountains. He was heating stones to drop in a barrel to scald hogs, and he heated this stone and dropped it into the water, and it broke.

He could have obtained another stone by walking another yard in almost any direction, but he did not care to exert himself to that extent.

So perished the finished product of a skilled artisan's toil, preserved for centuries and lost because it meant nothing to the finder. Thus did the priceless marbles of Rome in her glory go to feed the lime-kilns of the conquering barbarians.

Life has in it much need of discovering, not only the fallen stars that besprinkle our corn-fields, but the uses of them after we have found them.

What would you do with a star?

ALL IS SERENE IN RUSSO-POLISH PEACE CONFERENCE AT RIGA

RIGA, Latvia.—Adolph Joffe, head of the Russian soviet peace mission at Riga, having recovered from what is called here his "diplomatic illness" all the differences between the Poles and Russians relative to peace are understood to have been settled within a few hours of the reopening of discussions. It is stated that the pact is likely to be signed after five days, and that instead of thirty million rubles in gold previously offered Poland, she will get other concessions.

CALLAHAN PLEDGES IMPROVEMENTS FOR COUNTRY SCHOOLS

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Co-operation with all educational agencies in the state for betterment of Wisconsin schools was pledged here Monday afternoon by John Callahan, candidate for superintendent of public instruction, speaking to those interested in the present campaign. He stressed his desire to direct particular attention to the development of the rural school system.

Economical administration of the superintendent's office and a better organization of the inspectional forces, together with a reduction in their number, were said by Mr. Callahan to be high points in his program.

"I intend to give the greatest part of my time and energy to the immediate supervision of the rural schools in the improvement of the rural situation," he said. "The general situation cannot be improved unless somebody takes an active interest in the rural school problem and helps to stimulate the desire for improvement.

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

UNSIGHTLY FRECKLES Instantly Removed

Try this simple formula: Go to any toilet counter and get a bottle of Derwillo; apply two or three times daily, then watch the freckles disappear. The very first application proves it. Once you try it you will never be without it. Thousands use it in place of face powder, as it not only removes freckles, but instantly beautifies the complexion as well. There is no substitute for Derwillo as no other freckle remover does this. It gives you a rosy, white, velvety skin everyone "just loves to touch." Sold at all department and drug stores with the distinct understanding that if you are not pleased in every way you get your money back.

NOTE—A leading druggist, recently interviewed said, "We have never sold any freckle remover which gives better satisfaction than Derwillo. It is having an enormous sale and we gladly refund the money to anyone dissatisfied." It is guaranteed absolutely harmless, and is sold at all toilet counters in this city, including Boeschler Brothers and C. A. Degan.

LA FOLLETTE'S RETURN STARTS TALK OF RIFT BETWEEN HIM AND BLAINE

MADISON, Wis.—(Special.)—Senator Robert M. La Follette's announced visit to the state the week of March 20th has set political circles discussing the reported strained relations between the senator and Governor John J. Blaine.

Rumors have been persistent about the capitol that Blaine is running the executive job without too much regard for the viewpoint of the senator, and that his independence of action is disconcerting to La Follette's adherents.

Some of La Follette's followers are known to hold the view that Blaine is conducting himself with an eye single to his own chances to succeed himself two years from now. Men close to the governor make emphatic denials that relations between the senator and governor are in any way strained. They cite the appointment of Doerfler, a strong advocate of La Follette in the state, to the supreme bench, as proof.

Many believe La Follette's visit concerns reapportionment. The senator proposes to see to it the congressional districts with La Follette leanings are not disturbed, they say. It is further intimated La Follette may supply a helping hand to the socialists in the Fifth to keep the district intact.

BECK HERE TO KEEP DISTRICT INTACT

Reapportionment took on a new interest last week when Congressman Joseph O. Beck of the Seventh district appeared at the capitol and launched a campaign to keep his own district intact.

Beck was open about his lobbying. "My district is satisfactory to me and I don't want this legislature to tamper with it," he told newspaper correspondents, who questioned him as to the nature of his visit.

Reapportionment has been sleeping since the first day of the term. Senator Claire Bird introduced the joint resolution calling for a legislative committee to consider reapportionment and it was passed at once by the senate. It has lingered since then in a state of innocuous desuetude in the committee on elections of the assembly.

Enlarge Committee

The committee has amended the Bird resolution by enlarging the reapportionment from three senators and five assemblymen as provided by the Bird resolution to five assemblymen and eleven congressmen, the latter to be appointed by Speaker Riley Young.

Beck and others holding strong leanings towards the La Follette articles of faith, regard the situation with some degree of consternation. They do not regard Speaker Young as particularly friendly and fear his committee selections might want to play havoc with the present districts.

While no attempt will be made to fix the congressional boundary lines until after congress has definitely decided whether Wisconsin is to be represented by eleven or twelve representatives Beck has lost no time in driving in some spikes to keep his own district intact.

Others Expected Here

Other congressmen are expected to make visits to the capitol before the extra session convenes to see to it that their districts are not to be moved from under them by the legislature.

As soon as the election committee reports its amended resolution to the assembly—probably this week—and the senate concurs, the committee will be named and preliminary work begun.

The reapportionment of the assembly and senatorial districts can be made without regard to the action of congress.

Beck intimated to friends here he expected early action on reapportionment from this congress.

The reapportionment committee will make radical changes in congressional boundary lines regardless of the action of congress, legislators said. The change is necessitated, they said, because of the socialistic tendencies of the Fifth district.

AT THE RIVOLI

Thomas Meighan does the Ponce de Leon stunt in the new William DeMille production, "Conrad in Quest of His Youth," which comes to the Rivoli theater today. Mr. Meighan plays the title role, and he finds that the secret of youth lies not in the fabled fountain, nor the elixir for which scientists have been experimenting for past centuries, but in love. This story by Leonard Merrick has provided Mr. Meighan with one of the most pleasing photoplays in which he has been seen in some time. Margaret Loomis plays opposite the star.

VAUDEVILLE AND GOOD PICTURE PROGRAM AT RIVIERA FOR TWO DAYS

Two acts of vaudeville that feature a laughable "rube" comedy and an excellent musical offering head the bill at the Riviera today and Tuesday. William Morrow and company will appear in "On the Country Road," a comedy skit with songs. Special scenery is used in this act making it one of the most pretentious of its kind seen here in a long time. Henry Waak and Lewand Sisters present "A Nautical Oddity," in which a harp violin and the largest tuba in the world are introduced. Hayakawa, noted Japanese actor, appears in a new role, that of a comedian in his latest picture, "An Arabian Knight," which shows today. Besides the dramatic work for which Hayakawa is noted, the public sees a new Hayakawa in "An Arabian Knight," an actor who is seen in the extremes of light comedy and heavy drama. He is an adventurer, a scamp of the Levant, a fun-loving dare-devil who at the same time knows how to rescue a maiden in distress through the medium of drama. The Eddie Polo serial, "King of the Circus" completes the Riviera program for today. On Tuesday Geraldine Farrar may be seen at the Riviera in "The Woman and the Puppet."

AT THE MAJESTIC

A dope fiend in the morning. A priest in the afternoon. A correct English valet the following day. Such is the life of a character actor in the movies. Assuredly he is a veritable chameleon for changeability.

At The Majestic for three days starting today local playgoers will see one of the most talented of these players of many parts. Sidney Bracey appears as the valet, Hopkins, in "An Amateur Devil," a new Paramount comedy starring Bryant Washburn.

Mr. Bracey has been for years noted for his impersonations. Once he was a light comedy tenor of reputation.

"An Amateur Devil" presents Bryant Washburn in the role of a young man who is too slow to catch cold. His father, a more lively individual, enters into a conspiracy with the young man's fiance, portrayed by Ann May, to wake him up. The plan succeeds, even more than even they desired. Maurice Campbell directed the production from the scenario by Douglas Bronston.

Le Roy and Cooper Two and a Piano formerly in musical comedy who sing popular numbers, present some comedy talking dancing and clever piano playing.

Bernard and Erickson have an act styled "An Aca Unique" They are an entertaining pair with a routine of comedy talk, singing and yodeling.

GERALDINE FARRAR—STRAND

Sunny Spain with its romance, its color, its fire, its fierce passions, tempestuous loves and stormy jealousies is the scene of Geraldine Farrar's latest vehicle, "The Woman and the Puppet," which will be shown at the Strand today. Miss Farrar is given the role of a high-spirited Spanish girl whose wiles and whims bring a Spanish noble man to the verge of desperation until dangled too long like a puppet he turns and tames her. Lou Tellegen plays the supporting lead. The Ford Weekly completes the program.

"THE STRUGGLE"—CASINO

Franklyn Farnum, master horsemen and brilliant film actor, is the star in "The Struggle," a gripping story of the new west, which will be featured at the Casino today and Tuesday. Wit, thrills and humor abound in this story of the winning of the west. Faraum gives a hair raising exhibition of his reckless skill as a horseman and his courage and dexterity as an athlete. Critics and spectators everywhere have been loud in their praise for this sterling picture, which was adapted from the novel by William E. Wing. The wild animal serial, "The Lost City," also will be shown on the same program.

YOUNG MAN HAS FINE OPPORTUNITY SAYS ROWLISON

Creative Process is Highest Expression of Aggressive Nature of Youth

"Remember now thy Creater" was the topic of the sermon by Rev. C. C. Rowlison at the First Congregational church Sunday morning. He said in part:

"We all know the proverb: "Young men for action, old men for counsel." Youth is aggressive, and his aggression is either warlike or creative.

"At first we think of warlike aggressiveness as most characteristic of youth. As the primitive animal fights for a mate, so at mating time youth is apt to be warlike.

"The exuberance of youth expresses itself in warlike games. Take from games their warlike aspect and they would fall flat.

"Indeed it may be observed that the young man Jesus exhibited the warlike instinct. Behold his bitter indignation and the violent outbreak of temper in driving the money changers from the temple. He asked and gave no quarter in his opposition to the pharisees, or in his defiance of customary regulations which stultified life.

Fought Social Injustice

"He fought uncompromisingly social injustice. His estimate of values caused him to challenge men to throw away their wealth when that wealth was causing them to lose their souls. He held in contempt those who could oppose him only by arresting, falsely accusing and mockingly trying him.

"And yet the warlike instincts and impulses of Jesus were always subordinated to the creative instincts and impulses.

"The fights of youth are fair fights. They are fights to discover the best man. But the fights of maturity are woeful fights. They are not for the sake of the fight, but in order to win. To win at any cost to sacrifice any principle, to practice any deceit, to take any advantage—you can never take these elements out of war—the war of maturity—legislate as you will.

"War is not a young man's game, but the mature man's hateful enterprise.

"Reflection will show us that the creative process is the highest expression of the aggressive nature of youth.

"In creation is the joy of life. Love and mating and homebuilding belong to the category of creation.

"The constructive programs of life, building up industries, states, schools, churches, the very kingdom of heaven on earth, this is the challenge to the creative powers of youth.

"The old preacher by calling out, 'Remember now thy Creater in the days of thy youth,' challenged the young to become partners of God in the creative process.

A Partner of God

"The young man Jesus was so fully a partner of God in the creative program that he could say, "My Father worketh even until now, and I work." He has become the truest of Kingdom builders—not upon the wasted ruins where his soldiers have fought, not in the sloughs of despond in the devastated hearts or broken homes and overthrown powers—but in the creative processes of love, fraternity and good-will.

"We are prone to forget how the Master set himself against the destructive forces of hate, of anxiety, of fear, of unbelief. And even in so short a time, we have forgotten how Tolstoi imbued with the Master's doctrine of non-resistance, saw how these enemies of mankind were hurrying Russia and Europe into the very woe and desperation which has befallen her.

"To Jesus, even self-defense by force seemed impossible. Instead of "resisting him that is evil," he showed us how "to love our enemies, and pray for them that persecute us; that we may be sons of our Father which is in heaven."

"We should never forget that Jesus was still a young man, only thirty-three when he died.

Industrial Warfare

"The spirit of industrial warfare in America does not fill one with joy. The defiance of the church in the repudiation of the Y. W. C. A.'s, program of social justice by the big operators of Pittsburgh, fills one with fear that youth's great "war to end war" is to disappear in the fiasco of an industrial return to some form of feudalistic serfdom. The bitter and biggoted misrepresentations of the Interchurch investigation of the Steel Strike fill the heart of a Christian with sorrow and dread.

"Is business determined to verify its statement that the Golden Rule is impractical? That the teachings of the sermon on the Mount are fine visions of an impractical dreamer, but have nothing to do with modern business life? Does the fact that so large a percentage of the ordinary business men of this country holds in contempt the message of the church and its program of social reconstruction mean that the struggle is already on to determine whether America shall revert to a feudalistic Europe or wallow in the agonies of a soviet Russia? Are we waiving defiance at the claim of Jesus: "All authority in heaven and on earth is given unto me?"

"If America plays true to form her's is to be the youthful joy of the creative process, not the mature man's vindictive program of success by conquest.

"George Washington at one time expressed the great hope that "the American influence should be as a leaven to spiritualize the governments of the earth with the ideals of fraternity, and that America should avoid entangling alliances that meant wars of conquest."

RUTH M. BISCHOFF IS HONOR GUEST AT SURPRISE DINNER

ONE OF THE PRETTIEST parties of the season was held at the Y. W. C. A. club rooms Saturday evening, when a group of the girls gave a surprise dinner in honor of the birthday of the physical director, Miss Ruth M. Bischoff. Owing to the nearness of St. Patrick's day, green and white were made the predominating colors. White rose nut baskets and candle shades, dainty favor caps in green and white, bluebirds and butterflies, and dolls dressed in pastel shades of tulle, completed a most attractive table. A three course dinner was served by two little girls dressed as lavender butterflies. Covers were laid for twenty-four.

After solo dances by the guest of honor and Fernita and Avonelle Ness, games were played in the gym, and flashlights taken. Those present were: Mesdames Dow, Harzer, Brown, Metcalf, Philipps and Currie; and Misses Dow, Torrance, Iverson, Hill, Ullan, Strand, Donovan, Van Loon, McMunn, Wojahn, Severson, McLachlan, Saunders, Anderson, McReynolds, Mundstock, McKinstry and Ruth M. FIRST DUROC SALE IS HELD IN TOMAH

Young Pure-Bred Sows Bring Average Price of $58—Monroe Fair August 23

TOMAH, Wis.—The Tomah Duroc association of farmers residing in eastern Monroe county, held its first public sale in this city on March 11. Fifty-two young pure-bred sows were sold at an average price of $58. Of these, 25 were purchased by new pure-bred hog raisers, who will soon become members of the association—thus increasing the organization's membership and putting it on a firm basis.

Mrs. W. H. Stiles widow of Monroe county's first blacksmith, died on March 10, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Perry of Black River Falls. Interment was in Oak Grove cemetery, Tomah. Mrs. Stiles was one of Tomah's earliest residents and came here about the time the settlement was named for Chief Tomah of the Menominie band of Indians which visited these parts.

The Eastern Monroe County Fair association will hold the 1921 fair on August 23 to 26 inclusive. Extensive improvements are to be soon under way at the fair grounds in Tomah, and include additional stock sheds, a poultry house, a secretary's office and ticket office. The association is now the only one in the county and is for the first time in many years on its feet, financially. Officers elected for the year are President, E. E. Wyatt; vice president, William Brennan; secretary, Frank Rehberg; treasurer, W. E. Bosshard.

John Lachelt of the town of Tomah sold one of his pure-bred Guernsey cows for the neat sum of $250. Ex-Mayor W. E. Bossbard was the purchaser and the sale is a record one for this locality.

BISMARCK, N. D.—Officials of the Bank of North Dakota held a long conference Saturday afternoon following announcement that the supreme court of the state had decided that the Bank of North Dakota is subject to garnishment the same as private institutes. Denial, however, was made that the garnishment case was considered.

Lemke Surprised

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—William Lemke, attorney general of North Dakota, expressed surprise when informed of the state supreme court decision declaring the bank of North Dakota is not a part of the state government.

"We spent the best part of three weeks working on those sections of the bank law just to make sure that it would be a part of the state government," he said.

MORON IN CHICAGO GIVEN LIFE TERM

Action of Judge Occasion of Congratulations From Women

CHICAGO, Ill.—A life sentence in the penitentiary, imposed upon a moron by Judge Frank Johnston, Jr., has brought the judge scores of messages of congratulation from Chicago wives and mothers and women's organizations.

Court records show this sentence, imposed on William Tepfer, a barber, for an attack on a 15-year-old girl, is the heaviest ever given in Cook county for such a crime.

Mrs. David H. Danker, president of the Women's Protective association, said:

"The thing to do with the moron is to put him away forever. We realize the inadequacy of existing laws. Fundamentally, the way to eliminate the moron is to regulate wedlock. Promiscuous marrying is one of our gravest problems. We exercise prudence and care in breeding horses, cattle and even dogs, but we let the human race grow up like Topsy."

COUNT YOUR OWN BLESSINGS

In 1821
Mr. McCormick
Add a Machine
Step Into the Store
You Wear
Better Clothes

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

Would you be willing to go back to the standards of living that prevailed in 1821?

In spite of all the praise of "the good old days," would you be content to give up the many conveniences we have gained in the past century?

Next time you step into the corner store take a look around. Of all the articles on the shelves how many were on your shopping list 15 years ago? Make it twenty years and you will find that most of the things you buy today—and could not do without—were not even made then.

The telephone now places the farmer in instant communication with the source of the latest market reports, and saves him many hours of precious time in the event of sickness or accident.

You eat more wholesome food. You wear better clothes. Your home is better furnished. You have more sanitary houses. You have better newspapers. You seek more healthful amusements.

It was advertising that first proclaimed the usefulness of these things, that created an immediate and universal demand for them, that established a world-wide distribution which made them readily accessible to us all.

Your whole standard of living has been raised—and why? Because the men who make these better things are telling you that you will be more comfortable, happier and healthier if you use these higher grade goods.

You men and women who buy things, let this impress you. You are better men and women because of advertising.

McCormick invented the reaper and thereby made himself an everlasting benefactor of the farmer. But it was Advertising that carried the wonderful news with its far-reaching significance to the "man with the hoe."

It is the advertising that makes it possible for you to buy "the best" with the utmost confidence in the promises made by the advertisement. It is advertising that encourages the inventor to make new comforts, and advertising enables you to use them almost immediately.

You know what housework used to be. Realize what it is now, since the advent of sanitary plumbing, vacuum cleaners and electric household appliances. Advertising has brought these things into the home. It has eliminated drudgery.

Advertising is service. Science, invention, commerce, are all indebted to its aid. It has raised the standard of living, elevated business ethics and put us within reach of more real comfort, more real blessings, than we ever enjoyed before.

Use this service most advantageously—read the advertising every day more carefully than you have ever done before. Added economies, added comforts, added pleasures will result.

There was a complete change of costumes, many stunning street and dress costumes being shown. It was the idea of F. A. Pruess, who directed the show, to display on living models suits and dresses that would be worn by the average woman this spring and summer.

U. S. MARINE WEDS LANSING GIRL AFTER 25-YEAR BETROTHHAL

Sergeant Aksel Haug and Bertha Schafer Wed Last Week; to Live in Washington

WARRIOR HAS 23 YEARS CONTINUOUS SERVICE MARK

Served in Spanish War, Philippines; Doughboy; Sea Fighter

WAUKON, Iowa.—Culminating an unbroken courtship of more than 25 years, during which time the bridegroom has served his country through two wars and during the intervening period of peace, Sergeant Aksel H. Haug, U. S. Marine Corps, Washington, D. C., and Miss Bertha Schafer of Lansing were married in the latter town last Tuesday. Sergeant Haug, who was on ninety days leave from his post of duty, was in Waukon last week to visit his cousin, Oluf Hanson, and other relatives, and, incidentally, to procure his marriage license.

Back in 1896, Haug was employed as clerk in Henry Fischer's general store on Spring Avenue in Waukon, and previous to that time was a resident of Lansing, where he worked in the boat store. From that time dates his bethrothal to Bertha Schafer.

In Spanish War

At the outbreak of war with Spain, Haug went to Des Moines where he enlisted for service with the 51st Iowa volunteers in April, 1898, and since that time has been continuously in the service. In the Philippines he was transferred to the 36th U. S. Veteran Volunteers. At the close of his term of enlistment, after four years' service in the Philippines, he re-enlisted in Company M, 3rd U. S. Inf., and returned to this country and was stationed first at Ft. Thomas, Kentucky, and later at Ft. Bliss, Texas; Ft. Logan, Colorado; Ft. Douglass, Utah, and San Francisco.

In 1913 he joined the U. S. Marines and has been identified with that branch ever since. After a period in New York he was sent to Haiti where he ranked as a first lieutenant of the gendarmerie. He returned to America in 1914 and after a trip to Norway was stationed at Washington where he has since been located, the past three years being in charge of the sales commissary at that post.

Served Continuously 23 Years

Haug has served in the army and marines continuously over a period of 23 years, four years of which, when in the Philippines, entitles him to double time credit, so that he is credited with 27 years' service and has only three years longer to serve until he may retire on a lucrative pension.

Immediately after their marriage he and his bride departed for Washington, where they will reside, and on the expiration of his leave of absence early in May, he will enter upon his military life again for the last three-year lap. Upon completing his army service three years hence they expect to return to Allamakee county and make their home in Lansing.

Haug joined the M. W. A. order here in Waukon 26 years ago and still retains his membership in the local camp. He is also a Mason, having taken his degree work years ago while located in a Kentucky camp.

Krasnaya Gorka Fortress Retaken by Soviet Troops Says Copenhagen Dispatch

REBELS HANDICAPPED BY LACK OF FOOD SUPPLIES

Situation Reported Serious at Kronstadt

COPENHAGEN.—By The Associated Press.—Advices from Helsingfors Monday say the fortress of Krasnaya Gorka has been recaptured from the Russian revolutionaries by soviet troops and the garrison now consists chiefly of a cadet corps.

Leon Trotzky, soviet war minister, has ordered big howitzers to Oranienbaum on the Gulf of Finland, opposite Kronstadt, after executing M. Kolesov, chief officer of the flying station, and forty-four other rebels, the advices say.

The Moscow uprising is reported quelled after the severest street fighting.

Conditions in Kronstadt are said to be serious, owing to lack of food. Because of the large civilian population, the garrison's rations are extremely scanty.

MILWAUKEE POLICE INVOLVED IN LIQUOR TRAFFIC IS CHARGE

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—A federal grand jury will on March 29 begin an inquiry into the alleged connection of the Milwaukee police force with the liquor traffic. The order calling the jury was signed Monday by Judge F. E. Geiger.

Every other phase of the illegal liquor traffic will be investigated, it was predicted in federal circles, despite the fact that District Attorney Sawyer would not discuss the session except to say that it probably will be as prolonged as the last one, which sat for almost two months.

The last jury was dismissed by Judge Geiger because it sent to Wisconsin members of congress a petition for the return of beer and light wines.

Girl to Tell Story

Clara Hamon, defendant, will be the last defense witness to take the stand, her counsel said. Their list of witnesses numbers only nine, exclusive of impeaching witness they may introduce to controvert state witnesses' testimony. They may introduce a minor witness or two to "swear for a cross roads or something" of like trivial nature, but "we have none such in mind," W. P. McLean of defense said.

Mrs. Jake L. Hamon, who appeared thoroughly composed, took the stand at 1:40. Mrs. Hamon spoke in a well modulated voice and answered questions quickly and decisively. She said she on one occasion came to Ardmore and went to Hamon's and Clara's rooms at the hotel.

Clara Hamon watched the witness closely as she testified, but otherwise seemed unaffected.

Mrs. Hamon said on one occasion when she brought her daughter, Olive Belle, 11 years old, from Chicago to play her violin at an entertainment, she talked with her husband and later went tao the rooms Hamon and Clara occupied. She said Clara came in and threw her hat and gloves on the bed and ran out. Mrs. Hamon said she took a pistol from Clara's room on that occasion.

Mrs. Hamon said she saw her husband in Chicago from time to time.

She said on her visit here for Olive Belle to play a violin at the entertainment, Hamon took her to the depot and put her on a train for Chicago an hour and a half after she had seen Clara in Hamon's room.

The state then rested its case.

JEWS MISTREATED IN RACIAL DISORDERS IN VIENNA SUNDAY CROWD DISPERSED BY POLICE

VIENNA.—By The Associated Press.—Anti-Jewish disorders Sunday evening threatened to develop into a serious situation but the police succeeded in scattering the crowds and preventing loss of life. Jewish shops were damaged by stones and a few Jews were beaten.

The disorder began at the congress of the Austrian anti-Semitic association, attended by delegates from sixty-two chapters of the organization in Austria and a few representatives of Bavarian and Hungarian anti-Jewish societies. Speakers urged radical measures and advocated pogroms and the organization of Christians in Austria.

Large crowds assembled in the Rathaus square, where similar addresses were given.

At dusk the meeting broke up and a great crowd swept through the streets singing German songs and shouting "Away with the Jews." The crowd moved steadily toward the Jewish quarter but large forces of police had been summoned to bridges across the canal. The rioters were turned back but there was rowdyism and street fighting before police dispersed the mob.

JUDGE REFUSES DELAY IN TRIAL OF BALL PLAYERS

Date Expected to be Set at the Hearing Ordered for Thursday

CHICAGO, Ill.—Judge William E. Dever Monday refused to comply with a motion by the state that the trial of Chicago White Sox players and others indicted for the alleged throwing of the 1919 world series be taken off the court call. He ordered another hearing for next Thursday when it is believed a date for trial will be set.

Attorneys for the defense moved that an immediate trial be held Thursday and Judge Dever said that he would announce his decision in this matter later. Claude Williams, Buck Weaver Oscar Felsch and Swede Risberg were in court. Eddie Cicotte, Bill Burns, Joseph J. Sullivan, Rachel Brown, Chick Gandil, and Abe Attel, were represented by counsel. Hal Chase was the only defendant not present or represented by counsel.

Judge Barrett, American league attorney, in pleading for a postponement, said the prosecution had learned that "Eddie Cicotte, Claude Williams and Joe Jackson who confessed to the grand jury, would not be available as witnesses." Consequently, he said, the state could not obtain convictions on evidence it now had and "would have to have time to seek additional data."

STOCK MARKET RALLIES

Many of Leading Issues Stage Quick Recovery After Early Weakness

NEW YORK—The stock market rallied Monday from early losses on reassuring advices, Mexican Petroleum recovering 2½ points and Pan-American two points. The rebound was further sustained by short covering in Atlantic Gulf, Central Leather, American Tobacco and specialties, notably Stromberg and Famous Players, common and preferred. Those issues rose a point or more over last Saturday's final prices. Rails were dull but steady for the most part, although reports submitted over the week and disclosed further reduction of tonnage and earnings. Conditions in the money market were unaltered, coal loans opening at seven per cent and exchange on London was firm.

The week opened on the stock exchange with prices variably changed. Heavy speculative selling soon began, however, which forced some important issues to a parity with last week's lowest figures. Pressure was most pronounced against the oils, steels, railroads, Baldwin and Sears-Roebuck. Mexican Petroleum dropped 3¼, Pan American 2½ and General Asphalt one point. Crucible fell 2, Sears-Roebuck 1¾, Baldwin and Union Pacific 1 and United States Steel, Reading and Baltimore Ohio ½ to ¾. Utah Copper and Norfolk and Western 1¼ and American Can, American Smelting and Ray opened ½ to ¾ up. These gains were shaded when the weakness elsewhere became acute.

Depression became more marked in the final hour, Atlantic Gulf, Reading, Baldwin and Tobacco and Motor specialties leading to further reaction. The close was weak.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO, Ill.—United States Bureau of Markets—Cattle—Receipts 22,000; beef steers and butchers, she stock slow, mostly 15 to 25c lower; quality good; bulk beef steers, $8.50 to $10.00; bulk fat cows and heifers, $6.00 to $7.75; canners and cutters largely $3.00 to $4.50; bulls steady; bulk, $5.25 to $6.25; calves mostly 50c lower: vealers, mostly $10.50 to $11.00; stockers and feeders, steady.

Hogs—Receipts 48,000; fairly active; mostly 10 to 15c higher than Saturday's average; top, $11.50 early; bulk, 200 pounds down, $11.10 to $11.40; bulk, 220 pounds up, $10.50 to $10.35; pigs mostly 40c to 50c higher; bulk, 80 to 120 pounds pigs, $11.00 to $11.25.

Sheep—Receipts 30,000; opening slow: lambs, 25 to 50c lower; sheep, steady; lamb top early, $10.75 to shippers, 89-pound short lambs early, $9.00; bulk fat wooled lambs early, $9.75 to $10.25; no sheep early sales, talk steady.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Considerable strength developed in the wheat market Monday owing largely to word of export buying at Seaboard. Scantiness of rural offerings tended also to lift prices. Demand here, however was confined almost altogether to shorts.

Opening quotations, which varied from unchanged figures to three cents higher with March $1.59 to $1.60½ and May $1.51 to $1.53½ were followed by reactions from initial top figures.

Heavy selling on the part of leading longs ensued and prices dropped rapidly. Industrial and financial conditions were regarded as the main bearish factors. The market closed nervous, ¾ to 4¼c net lower, March $1.55 to ¼ and May $1.46½ to ¾.

Corn reflected the action of wheat. After opening unchanged to ⅞c higher, including May 69 to ¾c, the market steadied with part of the extreme gain lost.

Prices subsequently underwent a material setback when wheat turned down grade. The close was weak, 1 to 1¼c lower with May 67⅞ to 68c.

Oats were firmer with other cereals, starting ⅛c off to ⅛c advance, May 42⅞ to 43⅛c and hardened all around before beginning to react.

RAIL COMMISSION REFUSES TO RE-OPEN MILWAUKEE GAS CASE

MADISON, Wis. — The railroad commission Monday morning announced its refusal to reopen the Milwaukee gas rate case at the present time. The decision was made in reply to petitions of citizens who had appealed to the commission for a readjustment of its previous order raising rates.

In refusing to reopen the case the commission states that "this in no way prejudices the right of either the city or interested consumers in again bringing the matter before the commission in the future."

The statement, which accompanied the commission's announcement declared that the company had been operating at an increased loss during January and February, and that "other changed conditions have developed which it is claimed by the company will cause it serious increased expenses not taken into consideration at the time of the original order."

In view of these things, the commission states that it would be wholly unjustified in disturbing its order for increased rates.

BELIEVE ALL WILL BENEFIT BY ONLY FEW GRID CHANGES

More Drastic Action Was Expected by Adherents of Suggested Plans for Revision

CHICAGO, Ill.—Action of the football rules committee in making only a few minor changes in the code at its annual meeting in New York on Saturday, it is believed will meet with approval of coaches, officials, players and spectators.

While it was the general opinion that no serious alterations would be made, so many suggestions were brought to the attention of the committee, that more drastic action was expected by adherents of plans to eliminate the goal kick after touchdown, determine the length of contests by plays instead of time, and to bar runs after recovery of fumbles.

Spectators Are Considered

The most radical change, that of putting the ball in play on the thirty yard line instead of the twenty after a safety, was made for the spectators, who now can determine whether a touchback or safety has been counted. In case of a touchback the ball will be put in play on the twenty yard line.

The new rule also will help the team scored upon. In a great many cases safeties are scored on teams when opposing elevens have the advantage of a strong wind.

Constant exchanges of punts will gradually force the eleven which has to kick against the wind, back to the shadows of its goal posts. In such a position, the kicker must boot the oval from behind his own goal line and it frequently happens that the wind carries it back over the line and a safety results.

Helps Defending players

After the ball has been put in play on the twenty yard line, a few exchanges of punts again might leave the team at a wind advantage in the same position. The extra ten yards will be a great help to elevens trying to defend their own goals when the opposing teams have a great advantage in kicking, by being favored with a strong wind.

The committee also settled a question which caused no end of arguments last year. There was a difference of opinion among coaches and officials as to whether a touchdown should be taken from a team after a member of the scoring eleven had committeed a foul over the goal line. The committee has ruled the touchdown be allowed, the fifteen yard penalty to be inflicted on the kick-off play.

College football officials will now have to watch their step. They must determine whether to work the college and university games, or professional contests. If they choose the latter after the 1921 season, they will be barred from further employment by universities or colleges.

AVIATORS BEG THAT FLEET SHOOT AT 'EM IN BOMB TEST

"Tickled Pink" to Let the Gobs Shoot at them as They Bomb Warships

WASHINGTON. — Army aviators have become so enthusiastic over the proposed experiment of bombing naval vessels under approximate wartime conditions that scores of them have suggested that the fleet be allowed to fire back at the planes with anti-aircraft guns.

Pilots have flooded the office of the air service director with pleas that the matter be settled under honest-to-goodness war conditions.

Lieutenant C. C. Moseley, victorious pilot in the recent airplane race at Mineola field for the Pulitzer trophy, would be "tickled pink" at the opportunity of a real fight with the navy gunners.

"I firmly believe," he wrote his chief, "that a bunch of those gobs would have about as much of a chance of hitting one of us, (especially if the old battleship were in motion) as the proverbial snowball."

"With a fast plane I would feel perfectly secure to fly around all day over the Atlantic fleet and let them shoot at me with anything they have," read a letter from Captain Harvey Weir Cook, of Fort Crook, Neb.

In several of the air service flying fields bombing practice against silhouette warships placed upon the ground is being carried on. Army fliers claim that they could sink the biggest battleship with one direct hit with a 1,100-pound bomb dropped from an altitude of 9,000 feet.

TARIFF LEGISLATION TAKES BACK SEAT FOR TAX MEASURE

Only Emergency Tariff is Likely to be Anti-Dump Bill Says Mondell

WASHINGTON.—After a conference with President Harding, Representative Mondell, republican leader of the house, in outlining Saturday the probable program and policy of the new congress, declared revenue revision legislation should be considered ahead of any "temporary or stop gap tariff."

"If any emergency measure is possible in advance of the permanent tariff it must, it seems to me, be confined to a simple anti-dumping provision and possibly an amendment to the present tariff basing rates on American rather than on foreign values."

"While the passage of a tariff bill is highly important, it is equally important to let the people know as soon as possible the extent to which they are to be relieved for the calendar year of the burdens of federal taxation."
